WOMEN AND GENDER IN GLOBAL PERSPECTIVES

COURSE LIST SPRING 2025

This Course List, compiled by the Women and Gender in Global Perspectives Program (WGGP), includes GRID Elective Courses that are approved for the graduate minor, Gender Relations in International Development (GRID), administered by WGGP. The interdisciplinary GRID minor has been cooperatively developed by a number of sponsoring academic units for students interested in scholarship and employment in such areas as public policy analysis and planning, international agriculture, international business, comparative education, comparative social science and human resource development in an international context.

For the GRID minor, students must, in addition to fulfilling the degree requirements of their major department, take:

- 1. GRID Core Seminar (WGGP 581/SOCW 581/GWS 512 offered every Spring).
- 2. Two more additional units of course work from a broad list of: *GRID Elective Courses (Only courses offered in Spring 2025 are listed below. For a complete list contact the WGGP Program.)

For more information on the GRID minor, contact the WGGP Program at 333-1994 or check the WGGP webpage at https://wggp.illinois.edu/academics/grid-graduate-program .

COURSES approved for the GRID requirement:

Core Seminar for GRID Minor:

WGGP 581/SOCW 581/GWS 512:

GENDER RELATIONS IN INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

(Fogelman, C.)

R

2:00-4:50pm

Location: 131 English Bldg

This course focuses on analysis of the gendered dimensions of globalization and socio-economic transformation policies during the last few decades. The course stresses global human security and gender equity, with special attention to livelihood, migration, and health. We will examine who gains and who loses from neoliberal policies, assess the disparities in the impacts of crises and reforms on women, men, and children, and study the successful strategies and policies that appear. The course will address conceptual tools for evaluating development policies based on different paradigms. It satisfies the core requirement for the GRID (Gender Relations in Development) graduate minor offered by the Women and Gender in Global Perspectives (WGGP) program and Human and Community Development in cooperation with departments and units across campus; for more information, check the http://wggp.illinois.edu/ WGGP webpage. Related seminars and other programs are offered by WGGP and cosponsors; students are encouraged to attend these and other related events.

Credit: 4 hours. Interdisciplinary seminar examining theoretical and empirical research on gender and the transformation of social and economic structures. Students will develop a comparative perspective on issues of women and public policy by contrasting and comparing such policies in North and South America, Eastern and Western Europe, Asia, and Africa. Same as GWS 512 and SOCW 581.Restricted to Graduate - Urbana-Champaign.

GRID elective courses

In addition to the required core seminar, students taking the GRID graduate minor choose at least two courses (at least one must be at the 500-level) from the list of approved electives below. New courses are often offered, so students should check with the Assistant Director of WGGP to find out if a course not on the list may be in the process of being approved and can be used for an elective.

ANTH 515: Seminar in Anthropology

(Harrison, F) T 02:00PM - 04:50PM

Online

Credit: 4 hours. This course examines the multiple streams, sites, and positionalities of contestation, rethinking, and renewed knowledge production that have contributed to the theory, methodology, praxis, politics, and poetics associated with the "decolonizing generations." Anthropologists around the world, in dialogue with each other and with thinkers from other fields, are probing the interplay of knowledge and power in light of problems germane to modernity/coloniality, including white supremacy, heteropatriarchy, and accumulation by exploitation and expropriation in racial capitalism. These scholars dare to re-imagine possibilities for knowledge otherwise beyond the confining boundaries of the cognitive empire toward regenerative landscapes for epistemic equity. Restricted to Graduate.

Credit: 4 hours. In a global economy workplace diversity is not a trend; it is a reality faced by corporate leaders, human resource professionals and management consultants. Within the US, immigration, migration, and gender and racial differences have been major trends shaping workplace composition. Globalization places additional pressures on managing workplace diversity effectively. In this setting, training managers and human resource professionals to manage differences and adapt to multiple national and cultural contexts is an imperative. Course provides an in-depth understanding of how managers and HR professionals can be effective in not only managing diversity in a global context, but also in leveraging global diversity as a competitive advantage. By the end of this course students will have a holistic appreciation of the tools necessary to implement effective diversity management practices for a globally inclusive workplace.
